

ATTILIO GHISOLFI LANGHE NEBBIOLO 2021

Piedmont, Italy

ATTILIO GHISOLFI

TASTING NOTES: The color is a bright ruby red and the nose is floral, intense and ample. The taste is warm, savory and silky, due to moderate tannins, with the floral scents coming through on the palate. It has a moderately-long finish.

VITICULTURE: The Nebbiolo grapes for this wine come from vineyards scattered throughout Piedmont's top Barolo vineyards in Monforte Roero, Priocca and Monforte. The vines are at an altitude ranging from 1000 to 1500 feet.

VINIFICATION: The grapes are vinified following the traditional method under controlled temperatures, with maceration on skins taking place over approximately five days to fully bring out the wine's freshness and fragrance. The wine is then matured in small French oak barriques for approximately 9 months, with a further six months of aging in the bottle at controlled temperatures.

FAMILY: Carlo Ghisolfi was abundantly aware of just how highly prized Barolo wines from Piedmont were, so in 1985 he bought nine acres of land (in what is now known as the "Cru Bussia") to begin making wine. Carlo's son, Attilio, continued this path by purchasing 21 more acres. But it wasn't all vineyard land, as some of it was used for other fruit production. Until 1987, the year Carlo's grandson, Gianmarco, joined the company and, along with his dad, they decided to focus only on grapevines and wine. In 1988, the Ghisolfi-labeled wines produced their first vintage. That wine was called Barolo Bricco Visette, which is now lauded as a renowned Barolo "Cru."

The winery's vineyards are unique in that they have two exposures: one facing south, the perfect exposure for many of the world's best vineyards, including these prized Barolos, and one facing north, where Attilio Ghisolfi's Barbera comes from. These vineyards are cultivated with a great respect for the environment, without the use of chemical fertilizers or herbicides.
